THE SCAMMON FAMILY OF MAINE.

In the preparation of this paper the writer has had access to very few family records, being unable to learn of any old ones in existence; and the very little there is in print, is unreliable the only exception being Folsom's "Saco and Biddeford." The sources of information being mainly church and town records in York County, Maine wills and York deeds. The church clerk conscientiously trying to earn his salary can sometimes double discount "Little Buttercup" in the mixing up of children, while the town clerk does not always prove a bad second; there is, however, much to be learned by the comparison of these records aided by the gruesome light of the old gravestones, not always honest even in their dates; this sifting of evidence has its charms and while all of the dates given here may not be exact, the record of the descent of the families will be found accurate although not always complete. Should this fall into the hands of anyone who has the means of correcting or completing any thing here set down the writer would be glad of correspondence on the subject.

MATERIAL FOR A GENEALOGY OF THE SCAMMON FAMILY IN MAINE.

THERE can be little doubt that the New Hampshire and Maine families of this name were in some way connected; but how, remains, so far as the writer is aware, purely a matter of conjecture. In the "Genealogical Register" of John Farmer, there is a "William, Boston 1640," and a "Richard, Portsmouth 1642." These may have been father and son, or brothers, of whom the first is seen no more, although the name is retained in the family of the other.

For convenience we will assume that Richard, the settler of Portsmouth in 1642 was the father of the Richard who married, in 1661, Prudence the only daughter of William Walderne; also of John of Kittery who had daughter Elizabeth Atkins; of Anne who was the second wife of Major Richard Waldron; and of Elizabeth who married first, about 1648, Mr. Peter Lidget, and second, in 1680, Hon. John Saffin, and whose will dated in 1682 seems to establish these four individuals as brothers and sisters. It would seem that had the first Humphrey Scammon been a brother of Mrs. Saffin, she would have remembered him or some member of his family in her will. There is, however, on the other hand, a fairly well-kept tradition in the New Hampshire branch of the Scammon family that Humphrey was a brother of the four above mentioned.

The earliest mention of the first Humphrey Scammon is in the Kittery records and is as follows: "Humphry Son of Humphry Scammon and Eliz[a] his wife was Born at Kittery May 10[th] 1677," and the son then born in Kittery recorded fifty years later as town clerk of Biddeford his father's death: "Humphrey Scammon Desesed, Januarey the 1 day in year of 1727 and of his Aeaeg 87 yeares. Humphrey Scammon Town Clarck."

Between these two dates he lived sometimes in Saco and sometimes in Kittery, according as the troubles with the Indians were less or more pronounced. In 1679 he was at Cape Porpoise, also at Saco where he received a grant of land and bought 200 acres of the widow of Henry Waddock. June 12, 1680, he was "accepted into the town" and lived at the lower ferry on the East side of the Saco River, in his garrison house, having charge of the ferry (established 1654), and entertained travellers. Another grant from the town Dec. 3, 1681, and on May 10, 1684, he was on the "Jury of trials." In 1686 he was on church committees during the pastorate of Rev. Wm. Milburne. In Kittery in 1693, but about four years later together with his family was captured in Saco by the Indians and kept in Canada until the close of King William's war about the first of 1699. They returned to Saco but at the date of his will in 1714 he was "of Kittery." He died in Biddeford (formerly and now Saco) and probably at his son's house which was at the upper ferry about three miles below the falls and on the east side of the river. The family name of his wife is not known and the five children mentioned in his will are the only ones we know.

Mr. Whittier has perpetuated the Scammon name in his poem of Mogg Megone in connection with Wood Island at the mouth of the Saco River; the beauty of his poetry, however, is more to be admired than his historical accuracy. The larger part of the Maine family spell their name Scamman, but a portion spell it Scammon the same as the New Hampshire branch.

1 Humphrey[1] Scammon, born about 1640, died in Saco, Jan. 1, 1727–8; wife Elizabeth; five children mentioned in his will:

2 i. HUMPHREY,[2] jr., b. May 10, 1677; d. May 31, 1734.

ii. ELIZABETH,[2] m. July 15, 1697, Andrew (son of Andrew and (prob.) Deborah (Willson) Haley) who d. in 1725. Children: Elizabeth,[3] b. June 25, 1698. Andrew,[3] b. June 22, 1700. William,[3] b. Feb. 17, 1704, and prob. d. young. Samuel,[3] b. Feb. 17, 1706. Sarah,[3] b. Apr. 9, 1709. John,[3] b. June 14, 1712. Rebecca.[3]

iii. MARY,[2] m. Lieut. John (son of George Purington one of the first aldermen of Gorgeana (York). He left three sons, John,[3] James[3] and Joshua,[3] and perhaps other children.

iv. REBECCA,[2] m. ——— Billings.

3 v. SAMUEL,[2] b. 1689; d. May, 1752.

2 Capt. Humphrey[2] Scammon, jr. (Humphrey[1]) born in Kittery May 10, 1677, and died in Saco, May 31, 1734; he was married (probably the second time) about 1714 to Elizabeth (daughter of Dominicus and Hannah (Tristram) Jordan), who was born about 1690, and died, his widow, about 1746. In the agreement between Capt. Humphrey Scammon, Nathl. Weare and Pepperrell (afterwards Sir William) he is styled "Mariner," a prominent man and large land owner. His descendants have very generally spelled the name Scammon. He had ten children, the first two probably daughters of a first wife.

i. HANNAH,[3] m. Lieut. Allison Brown of Arundel (Kennebunkport), and had two children: Andrew,[4] m. Nov. 5, 1747, Elizabeth Harding and had 10 ch. Elizabeth,[4] m. Aug. 11, 1743, Abraham Tyler of Andover, then of Scarboro, of whom Southgate speaks highly, a soldier of the Revolution.

ii. ELIZABETH,[3] m. Aug. 25, 1729, Capt. Ichabod Goodwin of Berwick, and had ten children: Hannah,[4] b. July 24, 1730; m. Tristram Jordan. Ichabod,[4] d. in infancy. Humphrey,[4] d. in infancy. Mary,[4] b. Jan. 24, 1736–7; m., 1st, Mar. 17, 1756, Foxwell Curtis Cutts (Har. Coll. 1747) and m., 2nd, July 20, 1762, Rev. John Fairfield of Saco. Ichabod,[4] d. in infancy. Dominicus,[4] b. Apr. 24, 1741; m., 1st, July 12, 1763, Hannah (dau. of Capt. Elisha and Mary, (Plaisted) Hill); and m., 2nd, in 1772, Mrs. Betsey (Littlefield) Perkins. Ichabod,[4] b. May 14, 1743; d. May 25, 1829; m. Mary, dau. of Capt. Thomas, and gr. dau. of Col° Thomas Wallingford; he was Major General, also Sheriff of York Co. Samuel,[4] b. Aug. 17, 1745; d. unm. Elizabeth,[4] b. Dec. 25, 1748; d. unm. Sally,[4] b. Apr. 21, 1754; m., 1st, Sept. 24, 1772, Temple Hight, and m., 2nd, Rishworth Jordan.

iii. MARY.[3] Much of romantic tradition has been thrown around this child. In June, 1724, at about the age of 8, while on a visit to the garrison house of Roger Dearing in Scarborō, a connection of her family, she was captured and carried by the Indians to Canada, educated in the house of Gov. Vaudreil, became a catholic, and m. a M. Duncour of Quebec. She never received her inheritance, owing to the difficulty of communication. These lands, long known as "the Canada lots" were finally divided among the other heirs in 1802. She d. before 1757.

iv. SARAH,[3] d. Sept. 2, 1738; m. Aug. 25, 1737, Joseph (son of Tobias Jr. and Ann (Lord) Hanson of Dover, N. H.) as his 2nd wife. She had one son, Humphrey,[4] b. Aug. 27, 1738; d. aged 26 or 7; he m. Joanna, dau. of Isaac Watson of Dover, and had 2 sons and 2 daughters.

v. HUMPHREY,[3] b. Mar. 2, 1717. In the Kittery town records is the following which probably refers to him: "Married in Kittery Oct. —, 1738, by Rev. John Rogers, Humphrey Scammon of Biddeford and Susannah Shapleigh of Kittery." As the oldest son he received a double portion of his father's estate in 1736, and in 1744 he moved to Kittery where "he lived to a great age."

4 vi. DOMINICUS,[3] b. May 22, 1719; d. 1745.

5 vii. JAMES,[3] b. Aug. 1, 1721; d. 1753; he was a "blacksmith."

viii. NATHANIEL,[3] b. Feb. 6, 1723-4; d. at Cape Breton in 1745, unm; he was a "cordwainer."

ix. BENJAMIN,[3] b. May 9, 1727; d. in Biddeford in 1745 on his return from Cape Breton, unm.

x. JEREMIAH,[3] b. May 12, 1729; d. May 29, 1729.

3 Samuel[2] Scammon, Senior (Humphrey[1]), born about 1690; died May, 1752, in his sixty-third year; married twice; first, in 1712, at Kittery, to Margery, daughter of Roger Dearing, sr., of Kittery. She was born 1689 and died Oct. 10, 1740; married, second (intention of marriage Sept. 5, 1741) to Elizabeth Stimson, of Biddeford. He lived on the eastern side of Saco River, half a mile above the lower ferry, but after the death of his first wife resided with his son Samuel, jr., who in 1736 built a garrison house about in the centre of the present town of Saco. This house, although moved from its original site and much altered, is still used as a dwelling. Mr. Scammon was admitted a member of the church in Biddeford by Rev. Mr. Samuel Willard, who was ordained there Sept. 30, 1730. In his will he signs his name "Samuel Scamon" but his son Samuel[3] changes it to Scamman in his own will; John[3], in his will, writes "Scammon." Almost all of the descendants of Samuel[2] Scammon, Senior, however, have adopted the spelling Scamman. The only children known are those mentioned in his will:

6 i. SAMUEL,[3] jr., b. 1713; d. Mar. 8, 1758.

ii. JOHN,[3] d. 1752; m., 1st, Nov. 11, 1741, Hannah Foster of Scarborough, he m., 2nd (int. of m. Mar. 22, 1746), Hannah, dau. of Daniel Robinson of Cape Elizabeth. After Mr. Scammon's death his widow m. a second husband and removed with her children to Mt. Desert. The baptisms of his children are in the records of the 1st church of Biddeford:

7 iii. EBENEZER.[3]

4 Dominicus[3] Scammon (Capt. Humphrey, jr.[2], Humphrey[1]), born May 22, 1719; died 1745; married, 1741, Rebecca (daughter of Capt. Daniel and Rebecca (Emery) Smith), born Oct. 12, 1724, and died 1745. They lived on the Ferry Road in Saco, a little below the present cemetery; they both died of the malignant fever contracted by some of those who returned from the Cape Breton expedition, and of which his brothers Nathaniel and Benjamin, who were there, died the same year. Capt. Daniel Smith was of Exeter, N. H., and died 1750; his widow, born Mar. 7, 1697–8, married, second, Lieut. Nathaniel Ladd, of the English army, who died 1776. "Madam Ladd," who died 1786, had the care of her grandchildren Dominicus, jr., and Elizabeth Scammon. She used to complain that Mr. Ladd gave all his negroes their freedom. "It was hard that she could not have one;" two of them, "Pete" and "Bess," who were born of their slaves, were married and continued her voluntary servants till her death.

9 Col. James[4] Scammon, jr., (James,[3] Capt. Humphrey,[2] jr., Humphrey[1]), born about 1740–1; died Oct. 11, 1804; married about 1762 Hannah (daughter of Joshua and Hannah (Dustin) Page, of Dunbarton, N. H.), a direct descendant of Mrs. Dustin, the Indian slayer. Col. Scammon, previous to the Revolution, resided at Haverhill for a few years (1764–1771, at least) where he was married (probably). Early in 1775 he led the 30th Regiment of foot to Cambridge and remained about one year; owing to a serious error of judgment or to misinformation, he escaped the glory of being on Bunker Hill at the proper time; tried by court martial, he was honorably acquitted, but soon left the army. Evidently a man of ability, he lacked those elements of character which command success at the critical moment of grave responsibility, but possessing qualities which endeared him to his contemporaries and enabled him to shine in less demanding positions. His epitaph, selected by Hon. Cyrus King, denotes the esteem in which he was held by his friends:

"A man of infinite jest; of most excellent fancy."

"This stone to strangers may impart
The place where Scammon lies;
But every friend consults his heart,
For there he never dies!"
